President Cites U. S. Responsibility For World Peace

The War Today..

THE AIR OFFENSIVE AGAINST Germany, which has swollen to unprecedented fury in support of the Allied drives for a knock-out continued today and Nazi propaganda Minister Goebbels is chanting that it's "inhuman" and "can hardly be borne," though Hitlerdom won't quit.

Similarly in the war of the Pacific our aerial assault against Japan is intensifying to terrifying proportions as we close in. The German and Japanese capitals—next to London and New York the world's greatest cities—have become focal points in the attacks.

Tokyo—with its population of 7,000,000 and its flimsily built houses—finally has come under American bombing in a big way. The Japanese government is deeply worried, especially since explosives have fallen close to the royal palace. The Mikado is not only temporal ruler—he is a god.

Berlin—Hitler's once arrogant but now frightened capital, crowded with a war-time population of 3,500,000—is undergoing the fiercest air attacks ever administered to any city. It was under fire again last night. The Fuehrer has fled.

Japan—which deliberately bombs civilians (as in Nanking) and practices rape, torture and murder—is shocked that we should lay hands on Tokyo. Germany—whose atrocities have been made Attila look like a benefactor—has branded British and American airmen as the "Huns of the air."

Are we right or are we wrong in bombing Tokyo and Berlin? The answer is that despite enemy charges, the Allies are adhering to the Hague convention which forbids the deliberate bombing of civilians. Our bombs are directed at prime military objectives.

However, it's obvious that you can't pour 6,000,000 pounds of bombs, including half a million incendiaries, into a city—as American bombers did to Berlin—the first of the week—without a lot of civilians getting hurt. Stockholm reports that this raid caused between 25,000 and 30,000 casualties. Tokyo is even more vulnerable because its structures are so inflammable.

Both these cities are crisscrossed with military objectives. Berlin not only is Hitler's transportation hub but it's one of his vital war production centers. Tokyo houses many of the nation's greatest war industries. These objectives must be knocked out, and it's impossible to avoid killing civilians in the process.

Who hesitates because of that? The Allies certainly won't stay their hands, although they do intend to conform to the international convention which, in effect, lays down the code that in total war civilians must be immune from deliberate terror bombing while soldiers are not. Maybe it hurts a

ASKS CONGRESS SUPPORT PLANS SET AT YALTA

Says Failure Would Make America Responsible For New Conflict

(By Associated Press)
By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, March 1.—President Roosevelt told Congress and the nation today that America will have to take the responsibility for world collaboration "or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict."

Mr. Roosevelt said he returns home from his long journeys "with a firm belief that we have made a good start on the road to a world peace."

Sitting in the well of the house chamber at a joint session of the two branches of Congress, the President said in a personal report on the Crimea conferences that the Allies will not desert for one moment "until unconditional surrender" is won.

"The German people, as well as the German soldiers," he asserted, "must realize that the sooner they give up and surrender, by groups or as individuals, the sooner their present agony will be over. They must realize that with only complete surrender can they begin to reestablish themselves as people whom the world might accept as decent neighbors."

Death to Militarism
Unconditional surrender of Japan is as essential as the defeat of Germany "if our goal for world peace is to succeed," he declared, adding that Japanese militarism must be wiped out as thoroughly as German militarism.

Mr. Roosevelt went before Congress with his personal report on the historic conferences with Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill at Yalta just a little more than 24 hours after his return to the White House.

The chief executive described the Big Three meeting at Yalta as a successful effort to find a common ground for peace.

"It spells the end of the system of unilateral action and exclusive alliances and spheres of influence and balances of power and all the other expedients which have been tried for centuries—and have failed," he said.

"We propose to substitute for all of these a universal organization in which all peace-loving nations will finally have a chance to join. I am confident that the peace and the American people will accept the results of this conference as the beginnings of a permanent structure of peace upon which we can begin to build, under God, that better world in which our children and grandchildren—yours and mine, the children and grandchildren of the whole world—must live."

Calls for Congress Support
The President, reminded the senators sitting before him that they will soon have an opportunity to make a great decision "which will determine the fate of the United States—and of the world—for generations to come."

He apparently referred to the WASHINGTON, March 1.—Highlights of President Roosevelt's report to Congress today:

"I come from the Crimean conference, my fellow Americans, with a firm belief that we have made a good start on the road to a world of peace.

I am convinced that the agreement on Poland, under the circumstances, is the most hopeful agreement possible for a free, independent and prosperous Polish state.

At Malta, our combined British and American staffs made their plans to increase the attack against Japan. The Japanese war lords know that they are not being overlooked.

Never before have the major Allies been more closely united—not only in their war aims but in their peace aims.

The Crimea conference... spells the end of the system of unilateral action and exclusive alliances and spheres of influence and balances of power.

Given 15-Year Term For Espionage Conspiracy

NEW YORK, March 1.—Simon Emil Koedel, 63, a naturalized native of Germany and one-time soldier in the U. S. Army, was sentenced in federal court today to 15 years in federal prison on his guilty plea to conspiracy to commit espionage.

Judge Robert A. Inch sentenced Koedel's foster daughter, Marie Hedwig Koedel, 26, convicted of the same charge, to seven and a half years in prison.

The FBI charged that they collected information on military developments, especially on shipping in New York harbor, during the two years prior to Pearl Harbor and transmitted it to the German consulate.

CPA TIGHTENS MEAT POINTS

Sunday To Bring Stiffest Program, New Shopping Headaches

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 1.—A red-point food program, termed "the stiffest since rationing began" goes into effect Sunday. It assigns higher values to cheaper beef and pork cuts.

The OPA tempered the bad news today with two and three-point-a-pound reductions for choice beef steaks and roasts. These, however, are scarce in most parts of the country.

The tightening up results, Price Administrator Chester Bowles said, from "heavy military requirements and the fact that hog marketings are running below previous estimates."

While prevailing point values for all lamb and most veal remain unchanged along with the 24-point ration cost of butter, these boosts have been ordered:

Hamburger and bacon go from four to six points a pound. So does beef chuck, up from three points. Short ribs go from one to three points, boneless brisket from two to four, and flank meat from three to five.

Sausage, Liver Added

Among pork cuts, end chops are boosted one point to six a pound. Boneless hams go from seven to eight points; spareribs from three to four, and fat backs, hocks and jowls to two points from one or zero. Loin roasts go from six to seven points.

Many sausage products now ration-free will cost points again, as will a number of liver items. Many canned meats, such as corned beef hash and deviled ham, either come off the point-free list or get a boost in ration value.

In the beef exceptions to the general beef hike, porterhouse and T-bone steaks will cost nine instead of 12 points a pound. Round steak is reduced to 10 points from 13, while round tip beef roast will have a value of nine points rather than 11. A boneless sirloin roast will require 10 points a pound, down from 12.

Explaining the deductions, OPA said: "When a choice of either steaks or low point-value beef cuts has been possible, shoppers have tended to buy the low-point items, causing the better steaks and roasts to rack up in some retail stores and wholesalers' coolers."

Bowles said the meat allocation to civilians in March will be five or six per cent below February.

The OPA chief asserted, "no marked improvement in civilian meat supplies may be safely expected before late summer or early autumn."

Five more red stamps—E2 through J2 in ration book four—will be valid for buying meats and fats beginning Sunday. They will be good through June 30.

Character Of Germans, Japs Described By Wolfert

Jap soldiers, shorn of their sense of victory and the fear of the consequences of defeat, who become sensible men instead of wild animals, and German soldiers, disclaiming responsibility for a war they say their leaders made them wage, were pictured in a Town Hall talk at the High school auditorium last night by Ira Wolfert, ace war correspondent and author.

The writer, a veteran of two years in the Pacific and a year in Europe, described the character of our enemies, German and Jap, and related some of his experiences in both theaters of the war. He was presented by Ralph W. Hawley, Town Hall chairman.

Explaining that we have a tendency to forget that wars and the fate of nations and all events get down to the people involved, the correspondent gave many incidents to picture the character of the Jap, and the German.

Describes the Japs
The Japanese, Wolfert explained, like us, have never lost a war and until recently the thought that they would have been inconceivable to them. However, since 1942 the Japs have given up hope of winning the war and have turned to a fight for a negotiated peace.

They have placed hundreds of men on islands from which there is no escape, where those men sit and wait to be killed, while they kill and keep killing to the end.

The correspondent said that at Munda, when Americans had passed the line of pillbox fortifications and reached positions which could be taken by assault, they found that Japs reacted in two ways to close combat—the weaker ones threw themselves to the ground, cast away their guns, screaming and beating their hands against the earth while they waited to be killed—and the stronger ones killed themselves.

The German soldier is of a different character, the speaker asserted. The Nazi has been taught to efface all human feeling from his nature, to become superhuman and unreal.

Wolfert told of talking with a German officer captured on D-day in France. Slightly wounded, the officer was taken on an LCT to a ship being loaded with others who had been wounded.

Push Enemy Back Toward Rhine As Trier Is Entered

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, March 1.—Powerful American armies poured through the last defenses of besieged Cologne today and broke into ancient Trier, guardian fortress city of the Moselle valley on the route to Coblenz.

Reports many hours outpaced placed First army tanks and infantry within five miles of Cologne, greatest communications center in the Rhineland. At least five bridgeheads were thrown across the Erft river.

The American Ninth army to the north was declared at Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters to be making "spectacular new gains" at the edge of the industrial Ruhr region, driving the German 15th army toward the Rhine banks. German reports placed the Ninth within 11½ miles of Duesseldorf, and one broadcast said Duesseldorf was being shelled.

AIR BLOWS ENTER 18TH STRAIGHT DAY

LONDON, March 1.—The massive Allied air assault carried through its 18th straight day today. More than 1,800 U. S. and British heavy bombers smashed almost simultaneously against at least 10 targets in the Reich.

More than 600 RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes struck two rail and oil cities in western Germany, while more than 1,200 American heavies attacked eight railway centers in the southern Reich which serve three Nazi battlefronts.

Before noon, the U. S. Ninth air force lashed out with almost 1,000 sorties ahead of the blazing Western front. A force of 560 fighter bombers battered Neuss, suburb of the Ruhr's Duesseldorf, in the path of the Allied ground drive in the West.

Before worsening weather crippled air operations shortly after noon, the Ninth air force alone had blasted German retreat lines and troop movements along the Rhine from Neuss to the Moselle valley ahead of the U. S. Third army drive.

Havocs, Invaders and Marauders, 375 strong, blasted eight communications centers and three road bridges from northwest of Cologne to west of Coblenz.

Allied air fleets during February flew more than 100,000 sorties against the Reich with record low losses.

SHIP IS SUNK ON MISTAKEN IDENTITY

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The Navy today announced the loss of three naval vessels, including the small salvage vessel "Extractor," sunk by a United States submarine as a result of mistaken identity.

The other ships lost were the 14,250-ton cargo ship Serpens, manned by Coast Guard personnel and the large infantry landing craft LCI (L) 600.

The Serpens was carrying ammunition and all personnel, approximately 200 officers and men, were lost.

The infantry landing craft was sunk in the Central Pacific with two dead and one missing. The normal complement was about 25.

Survivors of the Extractor were rescued by the attacking submarine, the Navy said. There were six men reported missing.

Improved Chester Swine To Be Given Recognition

COLUMBUS, March 1.—After more than 75 years, the Ohio improved Chester swine may be recognized by the state as a separate breed of hogs.

The house of representatives yesterday voted 120 to 4 to give the breed separate recognition from the parent Chester White breed. The bill now goes to the senate.

The O. I. C. was developed in Columbiana county Ohio; the Chester White in Chester county, Pa. The O. I. C. was said to be a large hog, while the Chester White is a "bacon porker."

Kills Wife and Then Self After Backyard Argument

IRONTON, March 1.—Coroner W. W. Lynd today returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the deaths of Hobart Bragg 47, and his wife, Maude, 45, in a backyard fight at their nearby Greasy Ridge home last night.

Lynd said Mrs. Bragg's 10-year-old son Ralph and her mother told him they witnessed the fight, and quoted them as saying Bragg struck his wife with a hammer several times, then slashed her throat with a razor. Bragg then took his own life with the razor.

Urges Positive Action For Christian Results

Rev. Phil Taylor, evangelist, spoke at the Baptist church last night on "Accentuate the Positive," the third in a series of lectures being given here this week and next.

A large audience heard the speaker point out that "true Christian faith calls for positive and constructive action in order to achieve the proper results."

Rev. Taylor will speak tonight at 7:30 on "Why I Believe In The Bible." Technicolor films of St. Louis will be shown.

Carrying The Ball

For a country that had the jitters when von Rundstedt's year-end drive dented Allied lines in the Ardennes sector there is surprising complacency about the sizable bulge beginning to give Germans the jitters as Gen. Eisenhower's end-of-February offensive keeps rolling.

By Tuesday it had reached the Ert river running roughly parallel to the Rhine—last natural defense before the Rhine itself. Obviously headed toward Cologne, the offensive has been publicly proclaimed as the prelude to the final great battle in the west—the official measure of its importance.

Football-wise, it is as though the Allied team had regained possession of the ball, called signals and made first down on the first play. The goal is the Rhine. When it is reached, that will be another game, in all probability. The current game is to destroy the Germans west of the Rhine, or if they try to retreat across the river to rout them so badly they will never be reorganized as a formidable force.

The war in the Pacific, developments in diplomacy, problems at home, speeches, edicts, communiques and speculations all bid for attention, but the place where most depends on events immediately at hand is the battle of the Rhine.

Token of Good Faith

Gen. MacArthur's stirring proclamation that the constituted government of President Sergio Osmeña will rule the liberated areas of the Philippines is a milestone of foreign policy which needs no apology. It is a token of the good faith of the United States government.

The Filipinos do not need to question their liberation from Japanese invasion. Here is none of the shady dealing which smirched the liberation of France, none of the touch-and-go grappling for position which left scars on Greek politics and gave the British an extra burden.

The United States, despite its mistakes, has earned and obtained the goodwill of Filipinos who understand the opportunities and limitations of sovereignty. It was pledged to prepare the Philippines for ultimate independence. It has honored its pledge.

Preparations for independence will proceed. They will be watched in Asia, as they have been watched in years past, with the closest interest. They are the ultimate test of America's word. Gen. MacArthur and his father before him have been the ultimate test of America's power to make its word good. The Philippines have been one of the most successful demonstrations ever staged of a strong nation's ability to use its strength in such a manner that it need not be feared.

Common Denominator

A. Graves Williams of Portsmouth, president of Ohio Chamber of Commerce, has cut through a web of confused thinking about the much publicized activities of the C. I. O. Political Action committee and emerged with a sound conclusion.

If businessmen want to compete for public support on even terms, he told the Ashtabula Chamber of Commerce at its 49th annual meeting, they must come out of their ivory towers, organize a "saltier" kind of group for their own political action and, with public welfare as the common denominator, go to work.

In other words, business needs to sell itself as a wealth producing, job creating institution just as aggressively as labor unions sell themselves. While the idea is not new, the approach to the idea is different. Too often, businessmen take a defensive attitude about the function of private enterprise in a free economy. If they have something to sell—and they do—they should sell it as though they believed in it. That is what Eric Johnston, president of United States Chamber of Commerce, has been doing, with good results. With the assistance of all his organization's state presidents, he could go a long way toward balancing up the recently one-sided presentation of selling points.

Arrangements By Gen. Watson

The death of Gen. Edwin M. Watson, White House secretary and President Roosevelt's military aide, undoubtedly is a greater loss than the public is able to realize. Gen. Watson had an unusual talent for making arrangements. He served Woodrow Wilson in that capacity after World War I, arranging his visits to foreign countries. He had served President Roosevelt as aid since 1933 and as secretary since 1939.

His death virtually completes the turnover of the White House staff. Either by death, resignation, or loss of favor, nearly all the men and women who were close to Mr. Roosevelt at the beginning of his administration have gone. Stephen Early, in charge of press relations since 1933, still remains. Harry L. Hopkins, who became a White House intimate later in the New Deal, is now generally believed to be the principal personality in the Presidential circle.

To a great extent, Mr. Roosevelt's own ability to withstand the rigors of the Presidency has been due to the unstinting labors of a capable staff; they have eased his burden. Gen. Watson's strong arm will be missed.

The Stars Say

For Friday, March 2

THE auguries for this day hold for a fairly moderate condition in a business or professional way, possibly the arts or those enterprises having to do with social, domestic, sentimental values, claiming the attention. However, the personal or romantic interests, parties, celebrations, the pursuit of pleasure, where every magnetism, charm, glamor have appeal uppermost. Nevertheless, it is possible to be carried away from success and satisfaction by idle dreams of elusive fancies.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it may be look for a fairly progressive and pleasant year with finance, progress and production in relation with professional, artistic or career aspirations claiming the most faithful efforts. Social, affectional, and domestic festivities are to the front, with much to be gained on a solid and feasible basis rather than an illusive or glamorous claim to outer expressions, where with false hopes rather than real and worthy foundations actuate motives.

A child born on this day will have artistic, creative talents and skills, capturing a fairly gratifying career, although its best chances are bound up with personal charm or magnetism, although illusions based on false hopes or ideals may not prove entirely gratifying or productive.

Turkey's Contribution

By James Thrasher

Some hard words have been said about Turkey in this country since her declaration of war against Germany and Japan. Certainly there is nothing very inspiring about her entrance, under Allied pressure in order to win a seat at the San Francisco conference. But much censure of Turkish policy has been on practical, not idealistic, grounds.

However, it is debatable whether Turkey would have been of more help as a belligerent than as a neutral. The Turks are notoriously good fighters, and they have a sizable army. But they are woefully inefficient in planes and mechanized armament. And we have been able to send them equipment, through lend-lease, valued at less than half what this country spends on the war in one day.

These are practical factors that shaped Turk policy.

Turkish arms would have been helpful in the Balkan invasion, but there is no assurance that they would have saved Greece and the Aegean islands. On the other hand, there was a time when neutral Turkey was about all that stood between the swiftly advancing Germans in Russia and Rommel's troops in Africa.

Had Turkey declared war then, the Nazis might have marched in from Bulgaria and overrun the country. The British in Egypt might have had to fight an attack from the east, and there might have been no victory at El Alamein. The Germans, instead, might have taken the Suez Canal, seized the Near Eastern oil fields, and swept on toward a junction with their Japanese allies.

Emotional Regimentation

In a recent sermon, the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick was speaking of the dangers of "emotional regimentation". When things go well the national spirits go soaring; a military reversal and we get a case of countrywide blues. Differences between this country and its Allies depress us on a transcontinental scale—the Crimea conference announcement is a cause for general elation.

The country also seems to be suffering from a mass determination to get this war over with as quickly as possible, and to join in an international organization for enduring peace. Maybe that's emotional regimentation. But it's also known as national unity.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Knee Joint Injuries, Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN you have been "on your knees"—weeding the garden or cleaning the floor—you know how your knees are strained when you "straighten up." This is because the knee joint, being the most complicated joint in the body, easily tires if unusual strain is put upon it.

Because of the way in which it is constructed, it is not surprising that injuries and derangements of the knee joint so often occur, or that it is not always an easy matter to tell just what type of damage has taken place.

According to Doctor Daniel H. Levinthal of Chicago, an accurate diagnosis of the kind of injury is usually possible when the history of the symptoms has been carefully studied, examination of the joint made, X-rays taken—both from the front and side of the knee joint—and these X-ray pictures compared with those of the normal knee joint.

Diagnosis

It is always important that a diagnosis be made because some of these injuries can be treated conservatively, that is, without an operation. In other cases, however, operation is necessary. Many persons fear operations on the knee joint because they think that the joint may become stiff and limited in its movements. However, with modern methods of operation, these dangers can be avoided.

One of the conditions which may occur as a result of injury is that bits of material become loose in the joint. These are called loose bodies. This condition may develop in the disorder known as osteochondritis dissecans. Just what produces this condition is not known. However, when it does occur, small pieces of bone become loose in the joint. The symptoms at first are mild, but gradually become more severe as the fragments of bone interfere with the smooth motion of the joint. As a general rule, this disorder can be easily diagnosed by means of the X-ray. It is treated surgically.

A condition known as chondritis of the patella, or knee cap, also may cause bits of tissue to become loose in the knee joint. In making a diagnosis, an X-ray taken of the knee joint is usually satisfactory. When osteochondritis is present, an operation is needed to get rid of the loose pieces of bone. In addition to removing the tissues, it is also important that any surrounding cartilage which is diseased be carefully shaved down with a sharp knife.

Easily Injured

Still another condition affecting the knee joint is called osteochondromatosis. In this condition loose bits of material made up of both bone and cartilage get into the joint. During the operation in these cases, it is suggested that after all of the bits of material that can be seen are removed, the gloved finger be put into the joint in order to search for bits of material that are hidden, since if not all the material is removed, the symptoms will recur following the operation.

Knee joints are easily injured, and when injury occurs surgical treatment is often required. So be careful in every possible way to keep injuries from occurring.

Defends Draft Boards On Farmer Induction

COLUMBUS, March 1—State Selective service headquarters said today it had received many complaints that local boards were disregarding a congressional injunction not to induct farmers, but insisted the accusations were unfounded.

Col. C. W. Goble, state draft director, sent all boards a memorandum calling attention to the Tydings amendment, which provides that essential farmers should not be inducted into military service. Goble added:

"The law does not provide for an exemption from training and service in the armed forces. The amendment, however, does provide for certain criteria to be considered by the local board. The registrant or his employer must affirmatively prove that the registrant is necessary to and regularly engaged in an agricultural occupation or endeavor, essential to the war effort and that a satisfactory replacement cannot be obtained.

"If the registrant or the employer, in the opinion of the local board, fails to comply with the provisions of this amendment, subject to appeal, the registrant may be classified in a class available for military service."

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or easy passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Carrying The Ball

For a country that had the jitters when von Rundstedt's year-end drive dented Allied lines in the Ardennes sector there is surprising complacency about the sizable bulge beginning to give Germans the jitters as Gen. Eisenhower's end-of-February offensive keeps rolling.

By Tuesday it had reached the Erft river running roughly parallel to the Rhine—last natural defense before the Rhine itself. Obviously headed toward Cologne, the offensive has been publicly proclaimed as the prelude to the final great battle in the west—the official measure of its importance.

Football-wise, it is as though the Allied team had regained possession of the ball, called signals and made first down on the first play. The goal is the Rhine. When it is reached, that will be another game, in all probability. The current game is to destroy the Germans west of the Rhine, or if they try to retreat across the river to rout them so badly they will never be reorganized as a formidable force.

The war in the Pacific, developments in diplomacy, problems at home, speeches, edicts, communiques and speculations all bid for attention, but the place where most depends on events immediately at hand is the battle of the Rhine.

Token of Good Faith

Gen. MacArthur's stirring proclamation that the constituted government of President Sergio Osmeña will rule the liberated areas of the Philippines is a milestone of foreign policy which needs no apology. It is a token of the good faith of the United States government.

The Filipinos do not need to question their liberation from Japanese invasion. Here is none of the shady dealing which snatched the liberation of France, none of the touch-and-go grappling for position which left scars on Greek politics and gave the British an extra burden.

The United States, despite its mistakes, has earned and obtained the goodwill of Filipinos who understand the opportunities and limitations of sovereignty. It was pledged to prepare the Philippines for ultimate independence. It has honored its pledge.

Preparations for independence will proceed. They will be watched in Asia, as they have been watched in years past, with the closest interest. They are the ultimate test of America's word. Gen. MacArthur and his father before him have been the ultimate test of America's power to make its word good. The Philippines have been one of the most successful demonstrations ever staged of a strong nation's ability to use its strength in such a manner that it need not be feared.

Common Denominator

A Graves Williams of Portsmouth, president of Ohio Chamber of Commerce, has cut through a web of confused thinking about the much publicized activities of the C.I.O. Political Action committee and emerged with a sound conclusion.

If businessmen want to compete for public support on even terms, he told the Ashtabula Chamber of Commerce at its 49th annual meeting, they must come out of their ivory towers, organize a "saltier" kind of group for their own political action and, with public welfare as the common denominator, go to work.

In other words, business needs to sell itself as a wealth producing, job creating institution just as aggressively as labor unions sell themselves. While the idea is not new, the approach to the idea is different. Too often, businessmen take a defensive attitude about the function of private enterprise in a free economy. If they have something to sell—and they do—they should sell it as though they believed in it. That is what Eric Johnston, president of United States Chamber of Commerce, has been doing, with good results. With the assistance of all his organization's state presidents, he could go a long way toward balancing up the recently one-sided presentation of selling points.

Arrangements By Gen. Watson

The death of Gen. Edwin M. Watson, White House secretary and President Roosevelt's military aide, undoubtedly is a greater loss than the public is able to realize. Gen. Watson had an unusual talent for making arrangements. He served Woodrow Wilson in that capacity after World War I, arranging his visits to foreign countries. He had served President Roosevelt as aid since 1933 and as secretary since 1939.

His death virtually completes the turnover of the White House staff. Either by death, resignation, or loss of favor, nearly all the men and women who were close to Mr. Roosevelt at the beginning of his administration have gone. Stephen Early, in charge of press relations since 1933, still remains. Harry L. Hopkins, who became a White House intimate later in the New Deal, is now generally believed to be the principal personality in the Presidential circle.

To a great extent, Mr. Roosevelt's own ability to withstand the rigors of the Presidency has been due to the unstinting labors of a capable staff; they have eased his burden. Gen. Watson's strong arm will be missed.

The Stars Say

For Friday, March 2

THE auguries for this day hold for a fairly moderate condition in a business or professional way, possibly the arts or those enterprises having to do with social, domestic, sentimental values, claiming the attention. However, the personal or romantic interests, parties, celebrations, the pursuit of pleasure, where every magnetism, charm, glamor have appeal uppermost. Nevertheless, it is possible to be carried away from success and satisfaction by idle dreams of elusive fancies.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly progressive and pleasant year with finance, progress and production in relation with professional, artistic or career aspirations claiming the most faithful efforts. Social, affectional, and domestic festivities are to the front, with much to be gained on a solid and feasible basis rather than an illusive or glamor claim to outer expressions, where with false hopes rather than real and worthy foundations actuate motives.

A child born on this day will have artistic, creative talents and skills, capturing a fairly gratifying career, although its best chances are bound up with personal charm or magnetism, although illusions based on false hopes or ideals may not prove entirely gratifying or productive.

Turkey's Contribution

By James Thrasher

Some hard words have been said about Turkey in this country since her declaration of war against Germany and Japan. Certainly there is nothing very inspiring about her entrance, under Allied pressure in order to win a seat at the San Francisco conference. But much censure of Turkish policy has been on practical, not idealistic, grounds.

However, it is debatable whether Turkey would have been of more help as a belligerent than as a neutral. The Turks are notoriously good fighters, and they have a sizable army. But they are woefully deficient in planes and mechanized armament. And we have been able to send them equipment, through lend-lease, valued at less than half what this country spends on the war in one day.

These are practical factors that shaped Turk policy.

Turkish arms would have been helpful in the Balkan invasion, but there is no assurance that they would have saved Greece and the Aegean islands. On the other hand, there was a time when neutral Turkey was about all that stood between the swiftly advancing Germans in Russia and Rommel's troops in Africa.

Had Turkey declared war then, the Nazis might have marched in from Bulgaria and overrun the country. The British in Egypt might have had to fight an attack from the east, and there might have been no victory at El Alamein. The Germans, instead, might have taken the Suez Canal, seized the Near Eastern oil fields, and swept on toward a junction with their Japanese allies.

Emotional Regimentation

In a recent sermon, the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick was speaking of the dangers of "emotional regimentation." When things go well the national spirit soars; a military reversal and we get a case of countrywide blues. Differences between this country and its Allies depress us on a transcontinental scale. The Crimea conference announcement is a cause for general elation.

The country also seems to be suffering from a mass determination to get this war over with as quickly as possible, and to join in an international organization for enduring peace. Maybe that's emotional regimentation. But it's also known as national unity.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Knee Joint Injuries, Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN you have been "on your knees"—weeding the garden or cleaning the floor—you know how your knees are strained when you straighten up. This is because the knee joint, being the most complicated joint in the body, easily tires if unusual strain is put upon it.

Because of the way in which it is constructed, it is not surprising that injuries and derangements of the knee joint so often occur, or that it is not always an easy matter to tell just what type of damage has taken place.

According to Doctor Daniel H. Levinthal of Chicago, an accurate diagnosis of the kind of injury is usually possible when the history of the symptoms has been carefully studied, examination of the joint made, X-rays taken—both from the front and side of the knee joint—and these X-ray pictures compared with those of the normal knee joint.

It is always important that a diagnosis be made because some of these injuries can be treated conservatively, that is, without an operation. In other cases, however, operation is necessary. Many persons fear operations on the knee joint because they think that the joint may become stiff and limited in its movements. However, with modern methods of operation, these dangers can be avoided.

One of the conditions which may occur as a result of injury is that bits of material become loose in the joint. These are called loose bodies. This condition may develop in the disorder known as osteochondritis dissecans. Just what produces this condition is not known. However, when it does occur, small pieces of bone become loose in the joint. The symptoms at first are mild, but gradually become more severe as the fragments of bone interfere with the smooth motion of the joint. As a general rule, this disorder can be easily diagnosed by means of the X-ray. It is treated surgically.

A condition known as chondritis of the patella, or knee cap, also may cause bits of tissue to become core in the knee joint. In making a diagnosis, an X-ray taken of the knee joint is usually satisfactory. When osteochondritis is present, an operation is needed to get rid of the loose pieces of bone. In addition to removing the tissues, it is also important that any surrounding cartilage which is diseased be carefully shaved down with a sharp knife.

Easily Injured

Still another condition affecting the knee joint is called osteochondromatosis. In this condition loose bits of material made up of both bone and cartilage get into the joint. During the operation in these cases, it is suggested that after all of the bits of material that can be seen are removed, the gloved finger be put into the joint in order to search for bits of material that are hidden, since if not all the material is removed, the symptoms will recur following the operation.

Knee joints are easily injured, and when injury occurs surgical treatment is often required. So be careful in every possible way to keep injuries from occurring.

KNOX GIVEN NEW VOTING PRECINCT

Opposition Delays Action In Proposed Changes In Salem Precincts

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 1—The Columbiana county board of elections paved the way today for increasing to 121 the number of precincts under its jurisdiction, after postponing notices of the proposed establishment of additional voting areas in Knox and St. Clair townships.

Public hearings were ordered Wednesday, March 14, on the proposed creation of North precinct in the present two-precinct Knox township and establishment of West precinct in the present three-precinct St. Clair township, because of the top-heavy vote cast at the November, 1944, election.

Knox township's East and West precincts have been divided to establish North Precinct which will embrace Sections 1 to 12, inclusive, in the northern part of the township where a voting place will be located at Mile Branch grange hall.

The East and West precincts have been reduced in territorial size but there will be no change in the locations of the voting places at North Georgetown and Homewood.

Will Divide Precinct
The Southwest Precinct of St. Clair township will be divided between Annesley's road and the East Liverpool-Youngstown highway, or State Route 7, to create West precinct.

Other precincts in St. Clair township are Calcutta and South, voting at Calcutta and Bloomfield.

The board of elections previously created two additional precincts in the city of East Liverpool with establishment of 2-1 and 3-1. In Wellsville, 4-B was divided to create 4-D, while boundary lines of the east and west zones in Liverpool township were revised to establish Center precinct.

Election officials held in abeyance proposals to establish additional precincts in the city of Salem and village of Columbiana because of protests against the plan.

STATE OFFERS TREES TO COUNTY FARMERS

Columbiana county farmers may now make applications for trees and shrubs and for wildlife food from the Ohio Division of Conservation at Columbus, and their orders will be delivered without cost.

The offer is open only to farmers who have one-half acre or more. Application blanks may be secured from Lon W. Boring of Lisbon, conservation officer.

Two types of trees are offered and any farmer may secure either or both. Type A units contain 125 red pine and 42 food bearing shrubs of seven different species, namely, six each of Coralberry, Red Mulberry, Bush Honeysuckle, Flowering Crab, Graystem Dogwood, False Indigo, Chokeberry or Multiflora Rose. Type B units contain 200 Red Pine. All planting stock is packed in units, each unit sufficient to plant one-fourth acre.

COUNTY FUND MOVE GIVEN COURT OKAY

LISBON, March 1—Columbiana county commissioners have received court authorization to transfer $4,112.66 from the bond retirement fund to the general fund to meet "necessary obligations" incurred by the county in 1944.

County officials indicated that the money would be used to meet a deficit in county operations due largely to the fact that the actual dollar and cents income of the county had been cut in 1944 in the interest of the schools which had received a larger portion of the revenues.

It was pointed out by officials that state law prohibited them from accumulating unexpended surpluses in bond payment funds and that by the end of 1945 the county would be

FDR Gave Wheel Chair To King of Arabia As Gift

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL CRUISER, In The Mediterranean, (Delayed)—Probably no chief of state ever before presented a wheel chair to another chief of state. But that was President Roosevelt's gift to King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia.

The Arabian monarch, who finds it difficult to get around because he was wounded nine times in battle in his younger years, saw Mr. Roosevelt in a wheel chair and admired it.

He said one of the chairs would save him many steps at home. Whether it was a hint or not, Mr. Roosevelt dug up a spare and gave it with proper flourishes to the massive, black-bearded ruler.

Between World war I and II, German boats were not able to dock in the harbor of London.

KNOX GIVEN NEW VOTING PRECINCT

Opposition Delays Action In Proposed Changes In Salem Precincts

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 1—The Columbiana county board of elections paved the way today for increasing to 121 the number of precincts under its jurisdiction, after posting notices of the proposed establishment of additional voting areas in Knox and St. Clair townships.

Public hearings were ordered Wednesday, March 14, on the proposed creation of North precinct in the present two-precinct Knox township and establishment of West precinct in the present three-precinct St. Clair township, because of the top-heavy vote cast at the November, 1944, election.

Knox township's East and West precincts have been divided to establish North Precinct which will embrace Sections 1 to 12, inclusive, in the northern part of the township where a voting place will be located at Mile Branch grange hall.

The East and West precincts have been reduced in territorial size, but there will be no change in the locations of the voting places at North Georgetown and Homeworth.

Will Divide Precinct

The Southwest Precinct of St. Clair township will be divided between Annesley's road and the East Liverpool-Youngstown highway, or State Route 7, to create West precinct.

Other precincts in St. Clair township are Calcutta and South, voting at Calcutta and Bloomfield.

The board of elections previously created two additional precincts in the city of East Liverpool with establishment of 2-I and 3-F. In Wellsville, 4-B was divided to create 4-D, while boundary lines of the east and west zones in Liverpool township were revised to establish Center precinct.

Election officials held in abeyance proposals to establish additional precincts in the city of Salem and village of Columbiana because of protests against the plan.

STATE OFFERS TREES TO COUNTY FARMERS

Columbiana county farmers may now make applications for trees and shrubs and for wildlife food from the Ohio Division of Conservation at Columbus, and their orders will be delivered without cost.

The offer is open only to farmers who have one-half acre or more. Application blanks may be secured from Len W. Boring of Lisbon, conservation officer.

Two types of trees are offered and any farmer may secure either or both. Type A units contain 125 red pine and 42 food bearing shrubs of seven different species, namely, six each of Coralberry, Red Mulberry, Bush Honeysuckle, Flowering Crab, Graystem Dogwood, False Indigo, Chokeberry or Multiflora Rose. Type B units contain 200 Red Pine. All planting stock is packed in units, each unit sufficient to plant one-fourth acre.

Metzenbaum Proposes Sales Tax Boost Plan

COLUMBUS, March 1—Sen. James Metzenbaum (D) of Cleveland came forward today with a plan which he estimated would increase the state's income from the sales tax perhaps $10,000,000 a year.

This would be accomplished, he said, by making sure the state treasury receives every cent of the tax merchants collect on customer sales.

Metzenbaum submitted a bill the gist of which required vendors to separate their tax collections from the money they receive for merchandise and keep a record of the exact tax receipts.

The record would be retained for audit by inspectors of the department of taxation, regardless of whether it was kept on sales slips, on cash register tape or by some method prescribed by the department.

The law now requires vendors to keep such records, Metzenbaum said, but his proposal would "effectuate" the requirement.

Firestone, who is a veteran of World war I, is a banker in Lisbon. He is a member of the American Legion, Kiwanis, Masonic lodge, and also is a trustee of the Library board in Lisbon and a trustee of the United Presbyterian church.

Serving with Firestone are Mrs. Dorothy M. Finnicum, R. D. 2, Salineville; Harold A. Raley, R. D. 1, Hanoverton, and Mrs. Lloyd Farmer, R. D. 2, Leetonia, who are the present members of the County FSA committee in Columbiana county. This four-man committee will operate under the supervision of the Farm Security administration, and FSA Supervisor Paul H. Rinkes will serve as secretary of the committee.

Liverpool Marine Wins Praise For Iwo Valor

WITH THE 4TH AMPHIBIOUS MARINE DIVISION, Iwo, March 1—S. Sergt. John R. Haddock, although wounded in the hand and operating an amphibious vehicle he never had seen before, kept the communications open to his front line troops during the first days of Iwo's invasion while dodging shells, his commanding officer, Maj. Howard M. Confer of Paterson, N. J., said yesterday.

He said Haddock, of 714 Minerva st., East Liverpool, Ohio, also helped carry injured to first aid stations.

"Knowing that the signal supply situation was critical and the front lines were practically out of communication for want of gear, he found a weasel whose driver had been killed."

"Although Haddock had never seen one before he took off for the beach and loaded up with the critically needed items and returned through heavy fire to the hill-top time and again," Confer said.

83rd Division Tacks Up Democracy Signs In Homes of Germans

IN GERMANY—Allied troops pushing through Germany are finding propaganda signs in English left by vanished Nazi householders pleading for sympathy.

"Please treat this home as you would your own," says one sign. Another says, "We have done you no harm—do not harm our little home."

These "Goebbels gobbles"—there is no doubt the signs are inspired by the German government—stir anger among the troops, who have seen too much German destruction in other countries to worry about damage the enemy suffers in his own land.

"It must be a terrible sense of guilt that makes the Germans put up these signs," said the 83rd Infantry division's frontline newspaper, The Spearhead, in an editorial.

"Why should they think the soft soldiers of a decadent democracy would destroy their little homes?"

"You don't suppose they think we'd do such thing without provocation, do you? Or do you suppose they feel guilty about destroying half of Europe—and think we intend to destroy all of Germany?"

"Democracy At Work"

"They are guilty all right. And they know it. They are scared stiff. The war is right in their front yard. The shoe pinches. It is on the other foot. They know that too."

"Ah, they are a cagey lot, these Germans. They are smart and they are going to play us for all they are worth. It's damn near the end of the line in more ways than one for most of them. They know it only too well."

"So when it comes to signs, we've

For 50 Belgian francs—more than one dollar—Corp. John Dietrick of Dayton, Ohio, obtained two hen's eggs, which are almost as scarce as hen's teeth over here.

The corporal carefully fried his two prize eggs, then sat down to eat them while his buddies looked on with their mouths watering. Dietrick took a big bite—then portions of eggs flew in all directions as he made a wry face.

"That's the last time I'll ever keep a can of butter in one hip pocket and a can of shoe dope in the other," he said mournfully.

Shive and Loutzenhiser Win Second Air Awards

Two district airmen have been decorated with Oak Leaf clusters to their Air Medals, equivalent to another award of the medal, at an Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress station in England.

They are: First Lieut. Wayne H. Shive, 23, a pilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Shive of 117 Lisbon st., Leetonia, formerly employed by the Salem Tool Co.

Tech. Sergt. Richard F. Loutzenhiser, 19, a radio operator, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Loutzenhiser of 275 W. Pershing st., Salem, formerly a student at Salem High school.

They were decorated for "meritorious achievement" during bombing attacks on Nazi war plants and on military targets in cooperation with Allied ground forces.

Both are members of the 388th Bomb group, a unit of the Third Air division, which was cited by the President for its shuttle mission to Africa when Messerschmitt plants at Regensburg were bombed.

Bertha Gross Is Bride Of Edward Konnerth

The marriage of Miss Bertha Gross of Franklin st. to Edward Konnerth, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Konnerth of Newgarden st., was solemnized at 4 p. m. Saturday in the Emmanuel Lutheran church. Rev. John Bauman, pastor, officiated at the ceremony attended by members of the immediate families.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Gross and the groom had his brother, George Konnerth, Jr., as best man.

The bride wore a royal blue gaberdine suit with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias and red roses. Mrs. Gross wore an aqua suit with brown accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The groom's mother, in black velvet, had a corsage of yellow roses and pansies.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served to 30 relatives and friends. Table appointments featured a white linen cloth, three tiered wedding cake, white tapers in crystal holders and centerpiece of spring flowers.

The bride, who attended Salem and Detroit schools, was formerly employed by the Paris Cleaners.

The groom, a graduate of Salem High school and Bradley college, Peoria, Ill., is employed at the Rogers Jewelry store, Canton.

After a short wedding trip they will be at home to friends at 408 Fulton rd., Canton.

Metzenbaum Proposes Sales Tax Boost Plan

COLUMBUS, March 1 — Sen. James Metzenbaum (D) of Cleveland came forward today with a plan which he estimated would increase the state's income from the sales tax perhaps $10,000,000 a year. This would be accomplished, he said, by making sure the state treasury receives every cent of the tax merchants collect on customer sales.

Metzenbaum submitted a bill the gist of which required vendors to separate their tax collections from the money they receive for merchandise and keep a record of the exact tax receipts.

The record would be retained for audit by inspectors of the department of taxation, regardless of whether it was kept on sales slips, on cash register tape or by some method prescribed by the department.

The law now requires vendors to keep such records, Metzenbaum said, but his proposal would "refectuate" the requirement.

Farmers Prepare For Record Maple Syrup Run In Sugar Camps

Columbiana county farmers with sugar camps are getting ready for their first maple syrup operations, and are only awaiting favorable weather before tapping trees and beginning their first run.
The proper combination of temperature, moisture, and sunshine has not yet arrived, it is explained, and although a number of groves have been tidied up, and the sap buckets and spiles brought out from storage, the sugar makers say there is no use in beginning until we have a hard freeze.
Snow has now melted in the woods from everywhere but east and north slopes, and if a cold wave comes now it will freeze the sap to a depth necessary for proper sugar weather. The sap flows best it is said, when the ground is frozen, the nights remain cold and the days are cloudless.
Ground moisture is another requisite for a good sugar season, and it is better this year than for several years past. Sap experts have everything in readiness for a record production this year.

Hourly Wage Minimum Set

WASHINGTON, March 1 — The War Labor board places at 55 cents the minimum hourly wage rate necessary to maintain a wartime living standard.
WLB's regional boards yesterday were authorized to approve hourly rates up to 55 cents where employers voluntarily ask the increase or the union and employer make the request.
Any wage adjustments under the ruling are subject to approval by Economic Stabilizer Vinson to determine that they will not disturb prices.

Social Security Card No Identification Guarantee

Occasional complaints that social security account number cards are improperly used as identification for check-cashing purposes, today led Glenn H. Pittenger, manager of the district office of the Social Security board, to issue a cautionary statement.
"The social security account number card is not intended to serve as identification for check-cashing purposes, and should not be accepted as such," he said.
"A social security card is issued to any person who applies for it. It is issued for one purpose, and only one. That is to identify a social security account on which the wage record of the possessor may be posted as credit toward old-age and survivors insurance benefits.
"The account number is used with the person's name to identify his social security account, because many people have the same name but no two can have the same number. The Social Security board, in paying benefits, requires that the beneficiary identify himself fully."

SPLIT DANZIG FROM GERMANY

Cut Off By Land By Red Tank Advances; Cross Inna River

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, March 1.—Red army tank spearheads sweeping through a split-up German front have cut Danzig off from Germany by land, a Moscow dispatch said today, and the Germans said the Russians had crossed the Inna river defense line east of Stettin.

"This rush upon the sea definitely has cut Danzig off from Germany by land," said a dispatch by Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore.

He said a large section of eastern Pomerania also appeared to have been cut off.

"Col. Gen. A. K. Sokolsky's artillery has the Danzig-Stettin coastal railway under fire in several sectors and there is no traffic moving from east to west," Gilmore said.

The German communiqué said Marshal Gregory Zhukov's First White Russian army forced the crossing of the Inna, flowing east-west to Stargard, a stronghold 19 miles east of Stettin, then turning north toward the Baltic.

Further east, the Germans said, Marshal Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army forced the Germans into another retreat south of Pabitz, 22 miles from the coastal railway, whose capture the Russians announced last night.

A retreat southeast of Rummelsburg, 15 miles east of Pabitz, also was announced by the Germans.

Earlier, German broadcasts said Rokossovsky had plunged 12 miles north to Pabitz to Pölnow, only 16 miles from the railway.

Gilmore said Kolberg, Kooslin and Schlau, cities spaced 25 miles apart from Stettin to northeast on the Stettin-Danzig railway appeared to have been cut off from one another.

Large formations of Red air force Stormoviks threw German army and Volksturm units into confusion.

Telling of the capture of Neustettin, big communications hub, Red Star said "demoralized Germans surrendered one position after another" and quickly gave up the stronghold.

ASKS CONGRESS

projected world security organization, American participation in which will be passed on by the senate some time in the future.

He expressed a hope that Congress would decide his journey was "a fruitful one."

"For unless you here in the halls of the American Congress, with the support of the American people, concur in the decisions reached at Yalta and give them your active support," he said, "the meeting will not have produced lasting results."

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the senate and house both would be represented at the San Francisco United Nations conference beginning April 25, with both major parties having equal representation.

"World peace," he said, "is not a party question—any more than is military victory—the structure of world peace cannot be the work of one man, or one party, or one nation. It cannot be a structure of complete perfection at first."

Lauds Polish Boudry Action

Discussing at length the Big Three agreement for United Action in the political and economic field in liberated areas, the President mentioned the specific agreement regarding Poland's future boundaries as an outstanding example of such joint action.

Asserting the whole Polish question was a potential source of trouble in postwar Europe and the Yalta participants were determined to find a common ground for its solution, the President said:

"We did."

The decision to partition Poland he described as a compromise under which the Poles will receive compensation in territory in the north and west in exchange for what they lose east of the Curzon line. The limits of the western boundary, he said, will be permanently fixed in the final peace conference.

"It is well known," he continued, "that the people east of the Curzon line are predominately White Russian and Ukrainian. And the people west of the line are predominately Polish. As far back as 1919 the representatives of the Allies agreed that the Curzon line represented a fair boundary between the two peoples."

civilian more than it does a man in uniform.

The idea of international law is that any code which lessens human suffering in war is some advance towards sanity. However, it does seem strange that a world which must settle its arguments by such an inhuman method as war should be so concerned to protect civilians, while sending the cream of its youth onto the battlefield to be sacrificed. But maybe we had better not go into that too deeply.

With bombs falling near the Mikado's palace, the question is arising as to what the effect would be on Japan if he were killed. That's a point of vast importance, but one which we cannot answer, and consequently is something many observers wouldn't like to see happen. However silly it may seem to us, Hirohito is a god to his people.

The case of Hitler is different. The sooner he is dead, the better for humanity. Anyway, he's an active military man.

Aachen and found that 90 per cent of them were uninterested in Nazi ideals, "little people" who felt no weight of responsibility for their crime against humanity.

The speaker landed in France on D-day, having been with the seventh wave of men. He said the first wave of men landing escaped without a single casualty. Then the heavy guns in full command of the beach opened up and the second, third, fourth and fifth waves of men were wiped out completely.

At that point the Germans in the gun emplacement lost their nerve and fled because they saw the sixth and seventh waves of Americans coming.

Wolfert told of many experiences with Germans who surrendered as the Americans continued to advance through France. When cities in Belgium were captured the liberated Belgians went wild with joy at the sight of the Americans.

Next Meeting March 22

When German cities were captured, he said, the German civilians showed no sign of appreciation for being liberated.

The open forum period, during which the speaker answered questions from the audience, was the longest of any of the Town Hall meetings.

Chairman Hawley announced the next meeting will be Thursday, March 22, with Royal Arch Gunnison as the speaker.

EXONERATE EX-CON IN BANK ROBBERY

CLEVELAND, March 1.—Two men previously convicted of robbing the Girard, O., Federal Savings & Loan Co. last Dec. 15 have testified that a Columbus ex-convict, charged with complicity in the $800 robbery, had no part in the crime.

The accused Marvin Lilly, 46, who served two terms in the Ohio penitentiary for grand larceny, was arrested April 25 in Columbus on a federal bank robbery charge.

Edward McClure and William Spencer, previously sentenced to 15 years each in Leavenworth federal penitentiary after being convicted of both the Girard and an Akron bank robbery, told a jury in Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed's court yesterday that Lilly was not with them either time. They named an Akron man as their accomplice in the Girard robbery.

The case was expected to go to the jury today.

WPB Head Calls For Spurred Production For Pacific Action

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 1.—William L. Batt said today war production must continue full speed for "big military landings" in the Pacific and land fighting on perhaps the European scale.

The Army and Air Forces will have to be "pretty completely re-equipped" to fight Japan, the War Production board vice chairman said in an address prepared for a Rotary club luncheon.

Batt announced staggering figures on America's production—now equal to that of "all our allies and enemies" combined—but forecast Germany's fall will permit less than a 20 per cent reconversion to peacetime goods.

Batt disclosed that this country has sent 28,471 heavy bombers—liberators, Fortresses and the huge new Super-bombers—into the air. These were among munitions totals announced for the first time, covering the period from the start of the defense program in July, 1940, to the end of 1944.

All types of planes numbered 246,845.

"In merchant vessels we have produced 45,384,000 deadweight tons of ocean-going cargo ships. Of naval vessels there have been constructed no fewer than 56,697.

"The President wanted 45,000 tanks. We have turned out 75,000 tanks.

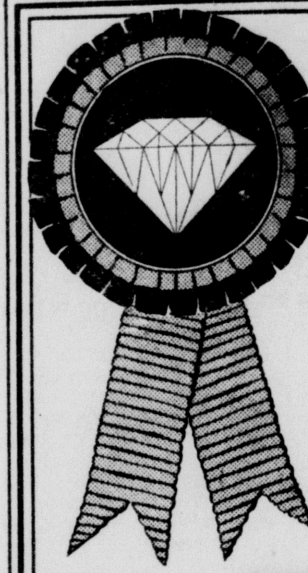

"We have produced 37,198,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition. . . . 2,927,502 short tons of ground artillery ammunition. . . . 4,130,000 short tons of aircraft bombs, 59,646,000 grenades.

(The lines above may look like a mystic maze. But if you close one eye and tilt this page to the position shown, you can easily read four familiar words.)

MAYBE you won't thank us for reminding you of the H C of L. But it doesn't seem nearly so high when you look at it in the light of your electric bill!

Almost alone among household necessities, the price of electricity has not spiraled upward with war. In fact, official government figures* show that the average price of electricity has actually dropped 3.2% since 1939:

That's especially good news now, but it continues a long-time trend. Electric prices have been coming down so steadily that the average American family gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 15 years ago.

If your bill is no smaller, it's because you're using more electricity to do more jobs than you did then. But the saving is there.

It has been accomplished by America's light and power companies in spite of rising costs and taxes—on top of tremendous war demands for electric service that were met without delay, shortage or rationing.

It was done by efficiency and experience and sound business management—by the same American enterprise which built our nation and on which its future depends.

SPLIT DANZIG FROM GERMANY

Cut Off By Land By Red Tank Advances: Cross Inna River

(By Associated Press) LONDON, March 1.—Red army tank spearheads sweeping through a split-up German front have cut Danzig off from Germany by land, a Moscow dispatch said today, and the Germans said the Russians had crossed the Inna river defense line east of Stettin.

"This rush upon the sea definitely has cut Danzig off from Germany by land," said a dispatch by Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore.

He said a large section of eastern Pomerania also appeared to have been cut off.

"Col. Gen. A. K. Sokolsky's artillery has the Danzig-Stettin coastal railway under fire in several sectors and there is no traffic moving from east to west," Gilmore said.

The German communiqué said Marshal Gregory Zhukov's First White Russian army forced the crossing of the Inna, flowing east-west to Stargard, a stronghold 19 miles east of Stettin, then turning north toward the Baltic.

Further east, the Germans said, Marshal Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army forced the Germans into another retreat south of Pabitz, 22 miles from the coastal railway, whose capture the Russians announced last night.

A retreat southeast of Rummelsburg, 15 miles east of Pabitz, also was announced by the Germans.

Earlier, German broadcasts said Rokossovsky had plunged 12 miles north to Bublitz to Polnow, only 16 miles from the railway.

Gilmore said Kolberg, Koslin and Schlawe, cities spaced 25 miles apart from southwest to northeast on the Stettin-Danzig railway appeared to have been cut off from one another.

Large formations of Red air force Stormoviks threw German army and Volksturm units into confusion.

Telling of the capture of Neustettin, big communications hub, Red Star said "demoralized German soldiers surrendered one position after another" and quickly gave up the stronghold.

projected world security organization, American participation in which will be passed on by the senate some time in the future.

He expressed a hope that Congress would decide his journey was "a fruitful one."

"For unless you here in the halls of the American Congress, with the support of the American people, concur in the decisions reached at Yalta and give them your active support," he said, "the meeting will not have produced lasting results."

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the senate and house both would be represented at the San Francisco United Nations conference beginning April 25, with both major parties having equal representation.

"World peace," he said, "is not a party question—any more than is military victory... the structure of world peace cannot be the work of one man, or one party, or one nation... It cannot be a structure of complete perfection at first."

Lauds Polish Boundary Action

Discussing at length the Big Three agreement for United Action in the political and economic field in liberated areas, the President mentioned the specific agreement regarding Poland's future boundaries as an outstanding example of such joint action.

Asserting the whole Polish question was a potential source of trouble in postwar Europe and the Yalta participants were determined to find a common ground for its solution, the President said:

"We did." The decision to partition Poland he described as a compromise under which the Poles will receive compensation in territory in the north and west in exchange for what they lose east of the Curzon line. The limits of the western boundary, he said, will be permanently fixed in the final peace conference.

"It is well known," he continued, "that the people east of the Curzon line are predominantly White Russian and Ukrainian. And the people west of the line are predominantly Polish. As far back as 1919 the representatives of the Allies agreed that the Curzon line represented a fair boundary between the two peoples."

IT'S ALL IN THE WAY YOU LOOK AT IT!

(The lines above may look like a mystic maze. But if you close one eye and tilt this page to the position shown, you can easily read four familiar words.)

MAYBE you won't thank us for reminding you of the H C of L. But it doesn't seem nearly so high when you look at it in the light of your electric bill!

Almost alone among household necessities, the price of electricity has not spiraled upward with war. In fact, official government figures* show that the average price of electricity has actually dropped 3.2% since 1939.

That's especially good news now, but it continues a long-time trend. Electric prices have been coming down so steadily that the average American family gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 15 years ago.

If your bill is no smaller, it's because you're using more electricity to do more jobs than you did then. But the saving is there.

It has been accomplished by America's light and power companies in spite of rising costs and taxes—on top of tremendous war demands for electric service that were met without delay, shortage or rationing.

It was done by efficiency and experience and sound business management—by the same American enterprise which built our nation and on which its future depends.

Leetonia Opens McDonald Tourney With Upset Of Sebring

Take First Fracas 32-26; To Meet Howland Tonight

Leetonia's improved cagers, starting off the Class B sectional tournament at McDonald last night with a 32-26 upset, downed Sebring, a team which defeated them earlier in the year, and moved into the second round of play.

In the other two opening contests, Vienna took a 60-29 shellacking from a potent Lowellville squad and Leavittsburg came through to wallop Fairfield, 66-35.

The Leetonia-Sebring fracas was a surprise to everyone as the victorious Leetonians had compiled only a fair season's record this year. Sebring, on the other hand, had an enviable record against much larger schools, losing but seven games in 19.

By virtue of their victory Leetonia meets Howland at 7 tonight. Should they take that game, the Leetonians would go into the sectional finals and earn a chance for a trip to Kent and the district tourney. If Howland is by-passed, Leetonia will meet Leavittsburg at 9 Friday.

Besides the Leetonia fray tonight Austintown Fitch, the surprise team of the county tournament at McDonald, meets Lisbon High school at 8. At 9 Mineral Ridge tangles with Bloomfield.

Columbiana, conceded as the top team in the McDonald field, swings into play at 7 tomorrow against a mediocre Champion outfit. Springfield Twp. meets Lowellville in the second game at 8 and Leavittsburg will meet the winner of tonight's Leetonia-Howland fray at 9.

Speaker Booked

Ed Bang, Cleveland News Sports Editor, To Be Here March 13

Ed Bang, veteran sports editor of the Cleveland News, has accepted an invitation to speak at the Salem Athletics baseball meeting at the Memorial building Tuesday evening, March 13. Scott Chisholm, club sponsor, announced today.

Bang, noted for his daily column in the News, is reputed to be an excellent speaker. His talk here will be supplemented by films of the 1944 "World Series."

Guests from baseball clubs and fan organizations in Alliance, East Liverpool, Lisbon, East Palestine, Columbiana and Salem will attend the meeting, which Chisholm said is open to the public.

IOWA LOOKS LIKE BIG TEN WINNER

Illini Drop Third In Row As Hope For Ohio Tie Dwindles Fast

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 1.—Iowa's basketball team, leading the Big Ten race with 10 victories and one loss, appeared headed for its first full-fledged title as Illinois, last opponent on the Hawkeyes schedule, last night dropped its third straight game in a week. Last place Indiana upset the favored Illini quintet 65-55.

Illinois nosed out the Hawkeyes 43-42 on Jan. 26 at Champaign, but at Iowa City Saturday the Iowans have a chance to avenge the defeat and clinch the crown. Ohio State, in second place with 10 triumphs, has two losses. The Illini, despite last night's loss, are assured of third place (7-4).

After dropping contests to Ohio State last Friday and Northwestern Saturday, the Illinois cagers continued their inaccuracy last night in field goal and free throw shooting against the Hoosiers. Junior Kirk, high scorer for the Illini, was held scoreless.

Tournament Side Glances

RESULTS AT SOUTH
South 50, Niles 31.
Lehman 33, Newton Falls 25.
East 41, Scienceville 37.
Timken 51, Ursuline 38.

Upsets are bound to come in every tournament, and one occurred at South High field house in Youngstown last night and another was on the horizon but was staved off in the dying minutes of the final game. Youngstown East, victors in only three of 15 games this year, eliminated a favored Scienceville outfit 41-37 in the hottest fray of the competition so far.

The other games came out as expected—South defeated Niles 50-31, Canton Lehman took Newton Falls unimpressively 35-25, and Canton Timken downed Ursuline 51-38—but Timken had a terrible time before they got far enough ahead of Coach Cy James' fighting Irish to breathe easily.

Minus their starting guard, Bill Stringer, who has 173 points this year, and minus the able eye of Coach Danny Myers to direct things, the Trojans really ran into trouble. Ursuline trailed 7-8 at the quarter, 18-19 at the half, and knotted the count at 26-26 just before falling behind 31-26 as the third frame closed. A Timken burst netted the balance in the final and put things on ice. Myers and Stringer are out with flu and Assistant Kenny Kate took over.

Coach Bob Miller, who scouted the Timken fray, was far from discouraged by the Trojan showing and is confident his lads will give them the battle of the tournament, if they reach the district finale.

The other rough, tough and crowd-disturbing battle was between Youngstown East and Scienceville. Not more than a few points difference separated the two schools all the way, but the East crew led most of the route. The 13-6 margin at the first period was narrowed by half-time to 23-18. A royal scrimmage through the third period resulted in a 29-29 knot as the final began. With less than a half-minute to go, East led 39-37, and a final two-point clinched it.

Coach Jimmie Robinson of Lehman went through one of those nights that appear in a coach's bad dreams. His lads, a better than average aggregation, barely skimmed through a 35-25 margin over lowly Newton Falls.

Content to pass the ball and shoot when they pleased—but not too often—Lehman trailed 5-9 at the quarter and forged meekly ahead 14-10 at the half. It was 27-18 as the final started and Newton Falls pulled up to within six before Lehman won going away.

Youngstown South, performing with raggedness but with point-getting power, tagged Niles rather easily. With a height advantage, South had its own way straight through. The going will be tougher for the seeded Youngstowners, however, when they tangle with Lehman's Polar Bears at 9 Friday.

Incidentally, Red Moore of Timken and "Bo" Trimbur of Niles tied for the evening's—and tournament—scoring honors by dumping through 20 points each. "Slick" Kay of South has the next best mark of 18, also made last night.

South moves on to play Lehman, East takes on Louisville and Timken meets Chaney as a result of the victories last night. The field is down to 19 teams. After tonight, just 16 will remain.

The spectator end of things picked up last night, as well as the mode of play. Nearly 1,200 folks saw the games and seemed to be having a much better time than on the first night of play. Cheering was louder, enthusiasm higher and tempers at more combustible state. Officials Joe Check, John Russ and Andrew Lindsay had their first really tough night—and there are more and tougher ones ahead.

BY BENNIE OOSTERBAAN
Michigan Coach

Michigan had a potentially great team in 1927, but seemed unable to hit its stride early in the season. On Jan. 14 they played Iowa, dedicating their new field house before 13,000 cheering fans.

The Hawkeyes, with such stars as Two Good, Van Deusen, McHarris and Pop Harrell, present coach, in the lineup, were rated favorite for the conference championship.

When we saw the crowd and realized we were playing one of the best teams in the country, something happened to each of us. Instead of being stage-struck, we became determined we wouldn't be beaten.

That night the Wolverines played their finest game of the season, scored a stunning upset and prevailed, 41-22. I scored eight points, hated to see the game end.

DICK HANLEY NEW PRO GRID MENTOR

Joins Newest Professional League, Is Fifth To Sign Up

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 1.—The All-America football conference—a proposed postwar pro grid project—had its fifth coach in its fold today, with Chicago's entry signing Lt. Col. Richard E. (Dick) Hanley, former college grid mentor.

Hanley, whose collegiate coaching career extended over 13 years at Haskell institute and Northwestern university yesterday signed a three-year contract as head coach and general manager of the Chicago club, one of eight prospective clubs.

John L. Keeshin, trucking executive who owns the Chicago franchise, announced signing of Hanley and disclosed that his assistant would be Maj. Ernie Nevers, a former grid great at Stanford and in the National Football league.

Contract terms were not announced but Hanley, who is combat conditioning officer for the Marine Aviation corps, said his salary would exceed his pay while at Northwestern from 1927 to 1935.

Hanley, who is 48, entered service shortly after Pearl Harbor and last fall coached the El Torro, Calif., Marines gridders.

In eight years as boss of Northwestern grid teams his record was 34 wins, 25 losses and six ties. In 1930 and 1931 the Wildcats shared the Big Ten championship.

HEADPIN TOURNAMENT RECEIPTS ARE $287

Bowling association officials disclosed today that the headpin tournament, held a week ago Saturday, netted $287 for the Boosters club servicemen's fund.

The annual event is sponsored to raise funds for the purchase of gifts for departing servicemen. Prizes for the affair were donated by local merchants and the committee today expressed appreciation to all who helped.

Gross receipts were $353, but pin boy expenses used $66 of the total. Reports from Columbiana and Leetonia are not yet in.

Sport Chatter

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The minor league threat of a "revolt," which probably is just a threat—unless they share in naming the new baseball commissioner brings up the question of why they have two separate and often conflicting organizations running baseball. Why not just one? Under the chain system, the same men operate big and little clubs. The big minors probably are more closely related to the majors than to the Class "D" circuits, but they're outvoted in their own group and separated from the big leagues. A year ago the "AA" circuits proposed a change in voting power within the National association but couldn't put it over. Now, with a new major-minor agreement coming up and baseball at a low ebb, would be the logical time to revise the setup.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

Willie Joyce, who will pick up a nice piece of change by fighting Ike Williams tomorrow, once was sold for $300 by Lizzy Kline. In high school at Gary, Ind., Willie used to be a pitcher and a hurdler. He could cause lots of confusion if he reverted to those sports in the ring. George Strickler figures 51.5 per cent of the men on the national football league's service roster are commissioned officers and 58.8 per cent of the officers were linemen. What was that about strong backs and weak minds? Sportscaster Stan Lomax is moaning about being scooped on his own story. Cornellian Lomax helped in the negotiations to bring Ed McKeever to Ithaca and had to keep quiet until after the official announcement, which hit the papers a couple of hours before Stan went on the air.

SERVICE DEPT.

Writing home from Stalag Luft 3, prison camp for allied air officers from Breslau, Lt. Clyde W. Bradley, Jr., of Asheville, N. C., says: "The football season came to a grand climax yesterday with an All-Star game. Now in full swing is the touch ball league. Such personages as Hal Van Every, Ray Frick, Buddy Elrod are the big men of the league." They'd be big men anywhere.

Leetonia Opens McDonald Tourney With Upset Of Sebring

Take First Fracas 32-26; To Meet Howland Tonight

Leetonia's improved cagers, starting off the Class B sectional tournament at McDonald last night with a 32-26 upset, downed Sebring, a team which defeated them earlier in the year, and moved into the second round of play.

In the other two opening contests, Vienna took a 60-29 shellacking from a potent Lowellville squad and Leavittsburg came through to wallopp Fairfield, 66-35.

The Leetonia-Sebring fracas was a surprise to everyone as the victorious Leetonians had compiled only a fair season's record this year. Sebring, on the other hand, had an enviable record against much larger schools, losing but seven games in 19.

By virtue of their victory Leetonia meets Howland at 7 tonight. Should they take that game, the Leetonians would go into the sectional finals and earn a chance for a trip to Kent and the district tourney. If Howland is by-passed, Leetonia will meet Leavittsburg at 9 Friday.

Besides the Leetonia fray tonight Austintown Fitch, the surprise team of the county tournament at McDonald, meets Lisbon High school at 8. At 9 Mineral Ridge tangles with Bloomfield.

Columbiana, conceded as the top team in the McDonald field, swings into play at 7 tomorrow against a mediocre Champion outfit. Springfield Twp. meets Lowellville in the second game at 8 and Leavittsburg will meet the winner of tonight's Leetonia-Howland fray at 9.

Speaker Booked

Ed Bang, Cleveland News Sports Editor, To Be Here March 13

Ed Bang, veteran sports editor of the Cleveland News, has accepted an invitation to speak at the Salem Athletics baseball meeting at the Memorial building Tuesday evening, March 13. Scott Chisholm, club sponsor, announced today.

Bang, noted for his daily column in the News, is reputed to be an excellent speaker. His talk here will be supplemented by films of the 1944 "World Series".

Guests from baseball clubs and fan organizations in Alliance, East Liverpool, Lisbon, East Palestine, Columbiana and Salem will attend the meeting, which Chisholm said is open to the public.

IOWA LOOKS LIKE BIG TEN WINNER

Illini Drop Third In Row As Hope For Ohio Tie Dwindles Fast

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 1—Iowa's basketball team, leading the Big Ten race with 10 victories and one loss, appeared headed for its first full-fledged title as Illinois last opponent on the Hawkeyes schedule, last night dropped its third straight game in a week. Last place Indiana upset the favored Illini quintet 65-55.

Illinois nosed out the Hawkeyes 43-42 on Jan. 26 at Champaign, but at Iowa City Saturday the Iowans have a chance to avenge the defeat and clinch the crown. Ohio State, in second place with 10 triumphs, has two losses. The Illini, despite last night's loss, are assured of third place (7-4).

After dropping contests to Ohio State last Friday and Northwestern Saturday, the Illinois cagers continued their inaccuracy last night in field goal and free throw shooting against the Hoosiers. Junior Kirk, high scorer for the Illini, was held scoreless.

Tournament Side Glances

RESULTS AT SOUTH

South 50, Niles 31.
Lehman 35, Newton Falls 25.
East 41, Scienceville 37.
Timken 51, Ursuline 38.

Upsets are bound to come in every tournament, and one occurred at South High field house in Youngstown last night and another was on the horizon but was staved off in the dying minutes of the final game. Youngstown East, victors in only three of 15 games this year, eliminated a favored Scienceville outfit 41-37 in the hottest fray of the competition so far.

The other games came out as expected—South defeated Niles 50-31, Canton Lehman took Newton Falls unimpressively 35-25, and Canton Timken downed Ursuline 51-38—but Timken had a terrible time before they got far enough ahead of Coach Cy James' fighting Irish to breathe easily.

Minus their starting guard, Bill Stringer, who has 173 points this year, and minus the able eye of Coach Danny Myers to direct things, the Trojans really ran into trouble. Ursuline trailed 7-8 at the quarter, 18-19 at the half, and knotted the count at 26-26 just before falling behind 31-26 as the third frame closed. A Timken burst netted the balance in the final and put things on ice. Myers and Stringer are out with flu and Assistant Kenny Kate took over.

Coach Bob Miller, who scouted the Timken fray, was far from discouraged by the Trojan showing and is confident his lads will give them the battle of the tournament, if they reach the district final.

The other rough, tough and crowd-disturbing battle was between Youngstown East and Scienceville. Not more than a few points difference separated the two schools all the way, but the East crew led most of the route. The 13-6 margin at the first period was narrowed by half-time to 23-18. A royal scrimmage through the third period resulted in a 29-29 knot as the final began. With less than a half-minute to go, East led 39-37, and a final two-pointer clinched it.

Coach Jimmie Robinson of Lehman went through one of those nights that appear in a coach's bad dreams. His lads, a better than average aggregation, barely skimmed through a 35-25 margin over lowly Newton Falls.

Content to pass the ball and shoot when they pleased—but not too often—Lehman trailed 5-9 at the quarter and forged meekly ahead 14-10 at the half. It was 27-18 as the final started and Newton Falls pulled up to within six before Lehman won going away.

Youngstown South, performing with raggedness but with point-setting power, tagged Niles rather easily. With a height advantage, South had its own way straight through. The going will be tougher for the seeded Youngstowners, however, when they tangle with Lehman's Polar Bears at 9 Friday.

Incidentally, Red Moore of Timken and "Bo" Trimbur of Niles tied for the evening's and tournament-scoring honors by dumping through 20 points each. "Slick" Kay of South has the next best mark of 18, also made last night.

South moves on to play Lehman, East takes on Louisville and Timken meets Chaney as a result of the victories last night. The field is down to 19 teams. After tonight, just 16 will remain.

The spectator end of things picked up last night, as well as the mode of play. Nearly 1,200 folks saw the games and seemed to be having a much better time than on the first night of play. Cheering was louder, enthusiasm higher and tempers at more combustible state. Officials Joe Check, John Russ and Andrew Lindsay had their first really tough night—and there are more and tougher ones ahead.

BY BENNIE OOSTERBAAN
Michigan Coach

Michigan had a potentially great team in 1927, but seemed unable to hit its stride early in the season. On Jan. 14 we played Iowa, dedicating their new field house before 13,000 cheering fans.

The Hawkeyes, with such stars as Twogood, Van Deusen, McConnell and Pop Harrison, present coach, in the lineup, were rated favorite for the conference championship.

When we saw the crowd and realized we were playing one of the best teams in the country, something happened to each of us. Instead of being stage-struck, we became determined we wouldn't be beaten.

That night the Wolverines played their finest game of the season, scored a stunning upset and prevailed, 41-22. I scored eight points, hated to see the game end.

DICK HANLEY NEW PRO GRID MENTOR

Joins Newest Professional League, Is Fifth To Sign Up

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 1—The All-America football conference—a proposed postwar pro grid project—had its fifth coach in its fold today, with Chicago's entry signing Lt. Col. Richard E. (Dick) Hanley, former college grid mentor.

Hanley, whose collegiate coaching career extended over 13 years at Haskell Institute and Northwestern university yesterday signed a three-year contract as head coach and general manager of the Chicago club, one of eight prospective clubs.

John L. Keeshin, trucking executive who owns the Chicago franchise, announced signing of Hanley and disclosed that his assistant would be Maj. Ernie Nevers, a former grid great at Stanford and in the National Football league.

Contract terms were not announced but Hanley, who is combat conditioning officer for the Marine Aviation corps, said his salary would exceed his pay while at Northwestern from 1927 to 1935.

Hanley, who is 48, entered service shortly after Pearl Harbor and last fall coached the El Torro, Calif., Marines grid team.

In eight years as boss of Northwestern grid teams his record was 34 wins, 25 losses and six ties. In 1930 and 1931 the Wildcats shared the Big Ten championship.

EDUCATIONAL TOYS

PITTSBURGH—Possibly because men always liked to play with electric trains, several steel companies have begun using working models of cranes and steel mill equipment to teach employees the fundamentals of safety. One steel company has a model crane which is equipped with every type of safety feature, including fire extinguishers, warning signs and safety guards. It is used in training classes so that new operators can learn how to handle loads with the fewest number of movements.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT
"Beth," Sarah went on. "Beth was asleep in bed, I imagine. Bill too, and Martha. Bill and Beth hated their father. I don't know that either of them hated George Davis. But—again—if George had found out that they'd committed patri-

"When asleep in bed?" the trooper muttered. "Try and disprove that one!"
"Jack Browne," Sarah continued. "Calder had done plenty to that boy. Caused his father to kill himself—which is supposed to have brought about his mother's death. Deprived him of his inheritance. Jack—of course! He was up at the club all night. Asleep?" She looked at Wes.

"Asleep," nodded Wes, "so he says."
"And old John?" she went on. "Calder even robbed old John! And where old John was, from the time I went to bed that night—till I woke Aggie at four—only old John knows. And there are a good many other people here who—"

There was the sound of a car in the drive. It stopped under the porte-cochere.

Beth walked to the screen door and leaned into the living room. "Bill and Martha and I are going swimming," she said. "It's hot as a baked brick! We'll turn on the boat-house floodlights—and probably collect a crowd. Want to come?"

"Maybe later," Aggie replied.

Beth smiled at Wes. "How about you?"

"Thanks. I'm leaving. I've still got a lot to do tonight."

Beth said, "You be sure to come, Aggie. Do you good to dunk your beard. Bring Daniele, if you like. There's a light in her living room and her coupe's in the drive."

Aggie flushed. Wes stared at him with incredulity. "You aren't toying with that heartbreaker, are you?"

"Certainly not!"

Sarah snorted.

The trooper went to the door. "Well, I'm going. I've got to look up some men in a tavern about twenty miles down the line. They think they saw a guy like Bogarty buying gas, on the night in question. While I'm at it, I may push on to catch a blackjack dealer in Saratoga who believes Bogarty put up at his aunt's tourist home in western New York. It's been like that—for a long time." He grinned. "Thanks a lot, Aggie, for all the help."

The professor waved his hand. "Incidentally," he said, "just to keep the record straight: Where were you the night Calder—and so forth?"

The trooper stared with well concealed amusement. "I was about three miles the other side of Garnet Knob, watching some yokels open up a still. So I haven't any alibi either. Good night!"

After Wes had gone there was a long silence. Sarah finally said, "I feel out of it, you know. Neither of you put the finger on me!"

When Aggie did not answer, she turned to look at him. He literally had not heard. He was lying on the inglenook seat, with his feet hanging over the end, banging his forehead with his fist as if it were a door.

Suddenly, the professor sat bolt upright. "Listen, Sarah! Don't scream! I thing your old friend Hank is alive—and I think I know where he is!"

Sarah Plum looked at her talented nephew for a full minute with an expression of electrified anticipation. "If you'd care to enlighten a poor old woman who is about to explode with excitement—"

Aggie gazed at her. "Enlighten you? First, I've got to enlighten myself. Then I'll discuss things with you." He started toward the front door and stopped as he reached it. "Be back in a few minutes. Remember—some time ago—you told me that you'd once found an old plan of the original hotel? The—Sachem House? The one that burned?"

"Certainly. I found the drawings in the club library."

"You got 'em?"

"Of course not! As soon as we'd decided to dig out that strong room on the quiet—I burned them."

"Big help," he said. "While I'm gone—draw 'em—from memory."

"Draw plans I destroyed thirty-some years ago?"

Her nephew went out, slamming the screen. He came right back.

"Flashlight," he said. "Where is it?"

"Aggie, don't be in such a dither! It's on the bottom shelf of the bookcase."

He crossed the room and picked it up. "You might try to catch Wes by telephone. Tell him I have another idea. And as for being in a dither—well, I don't think Hank is dead—but he might be any minute or hour—now!"

Plum ran to the road and turned in the direction of Upper Lake while he pondered the story of Mrs. Drayman about algae in the water. That algae idea pulled together a host of seemingly irrelevant ideas. Their integration represented a wild guess. But Aggie had confidence in it. A quick trip to Upper Lake was imperative.

The "beach" on that lake—where

Mrs. Drayman preferred to swim—was a short, narrow strip of natural sand.

Aggie trotted up to the beach and swirled on his light. The water certainly looked more brownish than the water of Lower Lake. He scooped up a handful and tasted it. No peculiar flavor. He hurried along the strip of sand to the mouth of a brook, wishing it was daylight so that he could define colors more accurately. The stream gurgled into the lake from a tier of pools shored up by mossy ledges. It was distinctly brownish. Since it was presumably spring-fed, the stream should have been crystal clear.

Aggie thought that Mrs. Drayman would really assume that a sudden darkening of the water on the beach was due to "algae."

Then Aggie plunged into the woods and followed the brook up the hill. Now and again he examined it to make sure he was also following the brownness in it. The brook threaded its way between trees and glacial boulders for an eighth of a mile and came to an end in a gravelly bowl. This emergence represented the spring that fed the brook. It was, in reality, the spot where the stream ceased to run underground. The water in the bowl was even darker than the water farther down.

On the bottom were myriad small squares of torn-up paper. He dipped into the basin and examined some of the fragments. Paper from a notebook and from what had probably been a tin-can label. Aggie shone his light at the surrounding rocks and studied them. He estimated the location of the spring. The clubhouse lay above him, several hundred yards to the southwest.

He ran back to the lake shore and started for the road. On his way he passed a small pier at which two or three rowboats were moored. A voice spoke from one of them. "Hello, Aggie!"

He spun around. "Daniel! I heard you were back!"

"What the deuce are you doing—whizzing around in the woods?"

"What are you doing—in a boat alone?"

"Thinking. Just—thinking. I was going to come over to see you and Sarah, by and by. How is she?"

"Much better. Well, I've got to push on."

"You're in a terrible hurry!"

"Yes," he said. "I am."

He was already moving away on the run.

When Aggie came back to the living room at Rainbow Lodge, he found Sarah bent over a large piece of brown paper, with a pencil and a ruler. "I take it," she said, "you believe somebody's hidden Hank under the club?"

"Yeah, I'm sure of it, now." He looked over her shoulder. "That's the way it goes. The plan of the wine cellar is perfect. I think the passage to the strong room goes more north and less east. But it'll do." He watched her erase and make the change. "Yeah. Like that."

"If your boy is at war, you ought to be in church."

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT
"Beth," Sarah went on. "Beth was asleep in bed, I imagine. Bill too, and Martha. Bill and Beth hated their father. I don't know that either of them hated George Davis. But—again—if George had found out that they'd committed patricide—"

"When asleep in bed!" the trooper muttered. "Try and disprove that one!"
"Jack Browne," Sarah continued. "Calder had done plenty to that boy. Caused his father to kill himself—which is supposed to have brought about his mother's death. Deprived him of his inheritance. Jack—of course! He was up at the club all night. Asleep?" She looked at Wes.

"Asleep," nodded Wes, "so he says."
"And old John," she went on. "Calder even robbed old John! And where old John was, from the time I went to bed that night—till I woke Aggie at four—only old John knows. And there are a good many other people here who—"

There was the sound of a car in the drive. It stopped under the porte-cochere.
Beth walked to the screen door and leaned into the living room. "Bill and Martha and I are going swimming," she said. "It's hot as a baked brick! We'll turn on the boat-house floodlights—and probably collect a crowd. Want to come?"

"Maybe later," Aggie replied.
Beth smiled at Wes. "How about you?"

"Thanks. I'm leaving. I've still got a lot to do tonight."

Beth said, "You be sure to come, Aggie. Do you good to dunk your beard. Bring Daniele, if you like. There's a light in her living room and her coupe's in the drive."

Aggie flushed. Wes stared at him with incredulity. You aren't toying with that heartbreaker, are you?"

"Certainly not!"

Sarah snorted.

The trooper went to the door. "Well, I'm going. I've got to look up some men in a tavern about twenty miles down the line. They think they saw a guy like Bogarty buying gas, on the night in question. While I'm at it, I may push on to catch a blackjack dealer in Saratoga who believes Bogarty put up at his aunt's tourist home in western New York. It's been like that—for a long time." He grinned. "Thanks a lot, Aggie, for all the help."

The professor waved his hand. "Incidentally," he said, "just to keep the record straight: Where were you the night Calder—and so forth?"

The trooper stared with well-concealed amusement. "I was about three miles the other side of Garnet Knob, watching some yokels open up a still. So I haven't any alibi either. Good night!"

After Wes had gone there was a long silence. Sarah finally said, "I feel out of it, you know. Neither of you put the finger on me!"

When Aggie did not answer, she turned to look at him. He literally had not heard. He was lying on the inglenook seat, with his feet hanging over the end, banging his forehead with his fist as if it were a door.

Suddenly, the professor sat bolt upright. "Listen, Sarah! Don't scream! I think your old friend Hank is alive—and I think I know where he is!"

Sarah Plum looked at her talented nephew for a full minute with an expression of electrified anticipation. "If you'd care to enlighten a poor old woman who is about to explode with excitement—"

Aggie gazed at her. "Enlighten you? First, I've got to enlighten myself. Then I'll discuss things with you." He started toward the front door and stopped as he reached it. "Be back in a few minutes. Remember—some time ago—you told me that you'd once found an old plan of the original hotel? The—Sachem House? The one that burned?"

"Certainly. I found the drawings in the club library."

"You got 'em?"

"Of course not! As soon as we'd decided to dig out that strong room on the quiet—I burned them."

"Big help," he said. "While I'm gone—draw 'em—from memory."

"Draw plans I destroyed thirty-some years ago?"

Her nephew went out, slamming the screen. He came right back.

"Flashlight," he said. "Where is it?"

"Aggie, don't be in such a dither! It's on the bottom shelf of the bookcase."

He crossed the room and picked it up. "You might try to catch Wes by telephone. Tell him I have another idea. And as for being in a dither—well, I don't think Hank is dead—but he might be any minute or hour—now!"

Plum ran to the road and turned in the direction of Upper Lake while he pondered the story of Mrs. Drayman about algae in the water. That algae idea pulled together a host of seemingly irrelevant ideas. Their integration represented a wild guess. But Aggie had confidence in it. A quick trip to Upper Lake was imperative.

The "beach" on that lake—where

Mrs. Drayman preferred to swim—was a short, narrow strip of natural sand.

Aggie trotted up to the beach and swirled on his light. The water certainly looked more brownish than the water of Lower Lake. He scooped up a handful and tasted it. No peculiar flavor. He hurried along the strip of sand to the mouth of a brook, wishing it was daylight so that he could define colors more accurately. The stream gurgled into the lake from a tier of pools shored up by mossy ledges. It was distinctly brownish. Since it was presumably spring-fed, the stream should have been crystal clear.

Aggie thought that Mrs. Drayman would really assume that a sudden darkening of the water on the beach was due to "algae."

Then Aggie plunged into the woods and followed the brook up the hill. Now and again he examined it to make sure he was also following the brownness in it. The brook threaded its way between trees and glacial boulders for an eighth of a mile and came to an end in a gravelly bowl. This emergence represented the spring that fed the brook. It was, in reality, the spot where the stream ceased to run underground. The water in the bowl was even darker than the water farther down.

On the bottom were myriad small squares of torn-up paper.

He dipped into the basin and examined some of the fragments. Paper from a notebook and from what had probably been a tin-can label. Aggie shone his light at the surrounding rocks and studied them. He estimated the location of the spring. The clubhouse lay above him, several hundred yards to the southwest.

He ran back to the lake shore and started for the road. On his way he passed a small pier at which two or three rowboats were moored. A voice spoke from one of them: "Hello, Aggie!"

He spun around. "Danielle! I heard you were back!"

"What the deuce are you doing—whizzing around in the woods?"

"What are you doing—in a boat alone?"

"Thinking. Just—thinking. I was going to come over to see you and Sarah, by and by. How is she?"

"Much better. Well, I've got to push on."

"You're in a terrible hurry!"

"Yes," he said. "I am."

He was already moving away on the run.

When Aggie came back to the living room at Rainbow Lodge, he found Sarah bent over a large piece of brown paper, with a pencil and a ruler. "I take it," she said, "you believe somebody's hidden Hank under the club?"

"I believe it."

"Yeah, I'm sure of it, now." He looked over her shoulder. "That's the way it goes. The plan of the wine cellar is perfect. I think the passage to the strong room goes more north and less east. But it'll do." He watched her erase and make the change. "Yeah, Like that."

"If your boy is at war, you ought to be in church."
